The relative prices of tires is a true index of their comparative values

The Knight Tire

Makes automobilizing a real pleasure, for the reason that when you are riding on Knight Tires the regular run of ordinary tire trouble is eliminated. Knight Tires are durable.

Every Knight Tire is built as good as a tire can be made. Nothing is omitted that would strengthen or improve it. No material is omitted that will make it a better tire or a more lasting one. The highest grade of material, in the largest possible quantity, is used in their construction. Knight Tires are made regardless of cost, our motto being—"Make the best tire possible, no matter what it may cost."

Results—in the long run, Knight Tires cost less to use than any other tire built—by giving less trouble and more miles than any other tire made.

Another Film Venture Launched
Here With All Local Talent.
First Release Under Way.

A new film venture has developed in Chattanooga: a company formed, and production already started. The name of this new company is the Beauvoir Film company, with Oscar McElhenny as director.
The first play to be produced is, "A Heart That Knows No Fear." Several of the scenes have already been filmed and those with the rest of the unexplored mountain scenery around Lookout mountain and Lookout mountain near Flintstone.
Some of the principal characters of the play are: Frances Pennebaker, Pierre Leonard, Hal Moseley, Ruby Williams and Robert Buard. All of the actors are local, but Mr. McElhenny, the director, who has had several years' experience in this work, is effective in his praise of Miss Pennebaker, his star, and predicts that she has a great future before her on the screen.
"There is lots of pep and punch in this play," said Mr. McElhenny, "and the fact that the players are local, and the scenes are taken from the unexplored mountain scenery around Lookout mountain, too, will cause it to be released here soon."

NEGROES PAY PENALTY FOR AWFUL CRIME

Ed Alsop and J. D. Williams
Electrocuted at State Prison at Early Dawn.

(Special to The News.)
Nashville, July 5.—In a little brick building of many barred windows, squatting in a lonely corner of a small plot that slinks from the east wall to the sleeping quarters of a thousand criminals, Ed Alsop and J. D. Williams, boy rapists, went to their death with the first gray streak of dawn today. Their feeble bodies, wrapped in a winding sheet, lay side by side in the Tennessee penitentiary "death house" directly below the cells in which they slept, prayed and moaned away the last few hours of their lives.

Both were negroes. Both were under age, Williams being only 17. Alsop, the older of the two, died first. One shock of 2,300 volts produced instant death. His corpse was lifted from the electric chair at 5:42 o'clock, partly covered, and borne past the cell of Williams, his charred face and motionless form exposed to the terrified gaze of the younger boy, who followed his companion to the chair exactly six minutes later. One shock was sufficient in his case also.

The condemned youths died gamely, maintaining their innocence of the atrocious crime of which they were charged to the very last minute of their lives. They joined in the solemn service conducted by the prison chaplain and heard whispered prayers for the deliverance of their souls. They joined in the singing of the hymns, but never once wavered from their original story.

Alsop and Williams were convicted of criminally assaulting a 16-year-old white girl, living near Lynville, Giles county, last December. The crime for which the negroes paid the death penalty was enacted near the girl's home in broad daylight, and the victim, when confronted by Williams and Alsop, promptly identified them as her assailants.

Both Alsop and Williams, it is said, confessed several times, admitting their guilt, the first time after being identified by the victim of their assault. After finding that they were safe from the hands of the angry mob seeking them, they switched to a plea of innocence and until the moment of their death claimed to have had no connection with the crime.

IN GRAND STYLE ITALIANS CELEBRATE AT HUNTSVILLE

(Special to The News.)
Huntsville, Ala., July 5.—The Fourth of July celebration here was an exceptionally large one, and was the first in history that so big a celebration had been put on without any solicitations from the public.

The Italians had a gorgeous float representing the torpedo boat that recently blew up two Austrian dreadnaughts, this float being decidedly the most elaborate. The Italians walking wore the uniform of their own country, J. de Stefano leading the soldiers. He was a captain in the army in his native country until he came to America to make his home.

ARE ADVERTISED MEDICINES WORTHLESS?

There is no more reason to condemn all advertised medicines than there is to condemn all physicians or all druggists. Fakes there are in every profession and in every trade, but they do not last long. Take a medicine like Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, the true test of its merit is the fact that for forty years it has been relieving women of America from the worst forms of female ailments, constantly growing in popularity and favor, until it is now recognized from ocean to ocean as the standard remedy for female ills.—(Adv.)

JOHN HELMICK PASSED BAR WITH HIGH STANDARDS

John Helmick, deputy in the office of County Judge Will Cummings, and who recently successfully passed the state bar examination, is in receipt of a letter from R. L. Moore, secretary and treasurer of the state bar examiners, notifying him that a certificate from the supreme court had been issued him. The letter also stated that Mr. Helmick's paper was one of the best Mr. Moore had ever examined. Out of forty, who took the examination, only three states, Mr. Helmick stood second in grade.

COUNT MINOTTI PAYS CITY VISIT UNDER GUARD

Noted Interned Alien Excites
Some Attention in Shopping District.

Few early morning shoppers who saw two armed American officers and a prisoner down town Friday morning knew that the prisoner was Count James Minotti, who has for the past several weeks been interned as an alien enemy at Camp Forrest. While the names of the officers could not be learned and the visit was strictly a military secret, it is thought the count was just being taken out for a little airing and to attend to some matters of importance in the city.

The count is a son-in-law of Louis Swift, the multimillionaire packer, and is understood himself to have an estate of some value, and it was in connection with his personal affairs that he was allowed the privilege of coming to the city. The count was accompanied by a captain and a corporal. Recently the count's wife paid him a visit, and just before leaving she stated that she was in a rather peculiar predicament in that she came here to see her interned husband and then was forced to hurry back to some port of embarkation, where she would tell her brother, who is an American army officer, good-bye.

Count Minotti is interned at Fort Oglethorpe on account of having been born in Germany and entertaining pro-German views. It is also charged that while he apparently had no visible means of support, he spent money lavishly, which it was charged came from the German government. However, he claims that he did not have to work, as his wife had ample means for the support of both.

EVEN GUNS AND AVIATORS LESS ACTIVE ON FOURTH

(Associated Press.)
With the American Army in France, Thursday, July 4.—The Fourth of July was an unusually quiet day in the normally inactive sectors occupied by American troops from the Wever to the Swiss border. Even the artillery and air services were less busy than usual, cloudy weather and poor visibility hampering them.

SOMETHING NEW IN JURISPRUDENCE

Something new in jurisprudence, a son representing his father in a lawsuit, was seen Friday morning when the case of the Bank of Ooltewah against R. T. Wright, Sr., was called. Mr. Wright, who is himself a lawyer, was represented by his son, R. T. Wright, Jr., and the bank by W. E. Wilkerson. The suit is a familiar one and regards some litigation the bank had placed in Mr. Wright's hands in which there was some dispute about the final settlement. The complainant is seeking to have freed some property that had been attached.

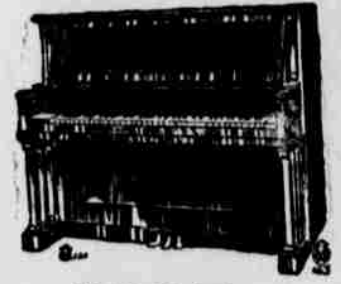

NONUNION MEN COMPLAIN THEY HAVE BEEN INJURED

A bill involving some labor troubles was filed in the chancery court Friday morning through Watkins & Watkins. The style of the bill is Kennedy & Brooks against the Signal Amusement company. Complainants stated they were employed to do some work on the Rialto theater, which is owned by the defendants, and on June 19, 1918, complainant Brooks and three of his men went to the Rialto to do this task and shortly afterwards Supt. Smith, of the Rialto company, came to him and told him that as he (Brooks) was not a member of the labor union that he must stop. The work was stopped for some little time during which the complainants claim they were placed at a loss of $50. Complainants, however, claim they were allowed to finish their contract. The entire amount involved is $225.
